Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Family and Slavery The Lord established a testimony in Jacob, and a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers that they should make known to their children, that the generation to come might know them; who should arise and declare them unto their children, that they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments. - Ps. 78: 6, 7, 8. The relations of the family state are those of husband and wife, parent and child, brother and sister, and master and servant. The first is voluntarily formed, the second and third are derived from it, and all three are perpetual, except as God shall dissolve them. The last is not essential to the family, and unlike the others, has its origin and perpetuity not in nature, but in circumstances. The necessities of society have generally required its existence, but no class of men has been divinely and specifically designated to fill it. The divine law, however, requires that where it exists, the master shall remember that he has a master in heaven, and shall consequently treat the servant as a rational and accountable fellow man, forbearing threatening, showing kindness, and giving him as a creature of God, and not of human law or custom, what is just and equal; and that the servant shall act honestly, faithfully, and with good will. Servitude on such conditions may be greatly advantageous to the parties concerned. Slavery is involuntary, hereditary, and unrequited servitude. It is the exaction of service without consent, and gives one man a claim to the life-long labor of another, with authority to enforce...
